

The Exchange Discussion Questions
“Was Blind, But Now I See... Sort Of”
26 July 2014

1. Have your beliefs about God changed over the years? What has led to the change?
2. What are some examples of when the process is more important than the product?
3. What is the “end goal” of Christianity?
4. How do we know whether our beliefs are becoming more accurate or more compromised?
5. Is there ever a time when we should stop searching for truth? Does more research ever diminish faith? Does it ever increase faith?
6. What’s the difference between extremism and faithfulness? How can we avoid extremism in religion?
7. How do you define a “miracle”? Is a healing a miracle only if it happens faster than the expected norm? How much faster?
8. Does God promise more than He can deliver? Why or why not?
9. What causes frustrations in the Christian journey? Can these challenges actually be productive?
10. Are there times when you shouldn’t tell people about Jesus?
11. Is slower growth sometimes better than rapid growth?
12. Why is it so hard to see, when you want something? What helps us come out of our “blindness”?
13. Is it wrong to want a sign from God? Should we expect signs every time?